David Kingman

painting, art glass, tiles, photography, drawing, design

David Kingman has been involved with the art and craft world all his life. In his teens he was at his father side as he learned and mastered the art of stained glass. David helped his father with large format stained glass church windows by doing calligraphy of bible verses on the glass and also helped with various lamp projects. David did some of his own window projects that were exhibited in Westport galleries in the Kansas City area. David went on to graduate from the Kansas City Art Institute with a major in Graphic Design. In the intervening years David got technical training and worked as a Programmer/Analyst while supporting his family, but continued his interest in art and continued to do watercolor paintings.

In 2001 David left the IT world to start up a coffee farm with his wife Joanne on the Big Island of Hawaii. The property they found was in South Kona at 2000 feet in elevation and was just up Mona Loa Volcano (mauka) from Millolii, the oldest continuously inhabited Hawaiian fishing village and the local boot maker.

He roasted and sold his coffee on the Internet, designing all the graphics for the konamist.com website and ads in Hawaii Magazine. Creating the Kona Coffee farm, while it incorporated technical aspects of horticulture, irrigation and construction, was as a creative process as painting a picture, if not more so.

During this period he began fusing art glass and continued his first love, watercolor painting. Inspired by the nature and culture of Hawaii, David remodeled his kitchen and replaced all the kitchen cabinet doors with custom made cabinets with fused glass inserts with a tropical theme. He is still available to make custom kitchen or bathroom cabinets doors. David sold his fused glass pendants at open air markets and tourist stops in Captain Cook, Hawaii.

David returned to the Northwest calling Eugene, Oregon home and continues to create artwork.

Centennial Bridge

David has always been interested and worked in various media including Jewelry, Wood Sculpture, Stained and Fused Art Glass, Photography as well as Watercolor and Oil Painting. More recently David has been creating figurative and abstract digital art on his iPad, inspired by Hockney iPad Art, and accompanies them with fanciful descriptions David has volunteered to be webmaster for the Oregon Glass Guild for 2013 and plans to exhibit at the "Gathering of Guilds" show in April at the Portland Convention Center. He also volunteers at the Habitat for Humanity "Restore" in Eugene, Oregon and has been a CASA (Court Appointed Special Advocate) for a child in foster care in Lane County.

Kingman Glass offers creative kiln fired glass including cabinet glass inserts, custom glass tile, glass slumping, clock faces, nightlight covers. We can also do large production runs of glass jewelry, glass refrigerator magnets or just about any glass object needing to be fired in a kiln. Large format firing is available. You can contact us at 1-541-344-5709 to discuss your custom design project. Also call us to discuss large format glass kiln rental (74 inches by 50 inches). We are located in West-Central Oregon (Eugene).
